DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claim 14 recites the limitation " said components " in line 2. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1-3 and 8-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Orita (US 6,725,984).

Orita discloses a damper comprising first (2) and second (13) components defining an enclosed chamber for holding damping fluid; a rotor (7) having a first portion rotationally disposed in said chamber and a second portion extending outwardly from said chamber (see Fig 4B); a valve (22) disposed in said chamber for relative rotation with respect to said rotor; and said rotor and said valve each having at least one valve face complementary to each other (see Fig 1), said faces adapted for engaging each other and substantially closing a space there between when said rotor is rotated in a first direction and for relative rotation with respect to each other for opening a space there between when said rotor is rotated in a second direction (col. 3 lines 1-26), said valve including a base (24) and an outwardly extending wing (23), with said valve face of said valve disposed on said wing (see Fig 1), said rotor including an outwardly extending paddle (16) and said valve face of said rotor disposed on an end of said paddle adjacent said wing (see Fig 1), said valve including two said wings and a valve face on each said wing; and said rotor including two said paddles and a valve face on each said paddle (see Fig 1), v-shaped channel, a ring on the cover, a cylindrical wall and a flange (see Fig 4B), o-ring (12).

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 4-7 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
